Overview of EIT Health Think Tank, a forum for thought leadership since 2018

The EIT Health Think Tank is the platform by which we:

- Conduct research
- Analyse and assess relevant topics
- Generate 'real-world' knowledge and insights
- Engage stakeholders
- Disseminate and communicate

Shape the environment in which we launch the products and services developed through our portfolio of activities

The aim of the 2024 - 2026 Think Tank project is to understand the evidence requirements for Blood Based Cancer Screening to be included in recommendations, and barriers for implementation

EIT HEALTH THINK TANK OBJECTIVES

- Potential - Assess the potential of blood-based cancer screening as a population-based screening tool in existing cancer screening programmes in Europe.
- Evidence requirements - Understand the minimum clinical and scientific evidence requirements for blood-based cancer screening to be considered as a population-based cancer screening tool.
- Implementation - Assess operational requirements and necessary care pathways/infrastructure changes to ensure that pathways are suitable for the potential adoption of blood-based cancer screening as a population-based cancer screening tool.
- Uptake - Identify broader implications and considerations for the broad adoption and uptake of blood-based cancer screening from a citizen perspective, with a focus on education and awareness
